Carely. A doctor, when you need one.

Book a GP or specialist in under a minute, then see them by video or in clinic.

Carely puts appointments, video consultations, prescriptions and medication reminders in one calm app. We designed it for people booking care for themselves, their children or an older parent, often on a bad day and with one hand free.

— SCREENS

Four screens that do most of the work

Most people open Carely to do one of four things: check a doctor, book a slot, join a call or find a prescription. Each of those gets a screen built around a single main action.

— KEY FEATURES

Built for the moments people actually book care

We spoke to 14 patients and 5 clinic receptionists before drawing a screen. Most bookings happen in the evening, on a phone, for someone else.

Two-tap booking
Pick a day, pick a time, confirm. Saved payment and patient details mean there is no form to fill in on the way.

Video consultations
A waiting room opens 10 minutes early with a camera and connection check, so the first minute isn't spent on "can you hear me?".

Medication reminders
Every prescription can switch on its own reminder. Times follow the dose the doctor wrote, and you can move them.

Family profiles
Book for a child or a parent from one account. Each person keeps their own records, and switching takes one tap.

Records in one place
Prescriptions, test results and consultation notes, sorted by date and searchable. Share a file with a new doctor in a tap.

Clear prices upfront
Every doctor card shows the fee and the appointment length before you tap in. No surprises at checkout.

— DESIGN NOTES

Calm, clinical, and still human

A soft periwinkle blue does the work of a clinic's white walls without feeling cold. Warm accents mark the things that need you: reminders, ratings and results.
